

I am opposed to any changes in the current law regarding telephone solicitation. States should be given the authority to act for citizens without government intervention in this issue. I have been extremely satisfied that in the state of Indiana since passage of the bill I have not been bothered nightly with telephone solicitors who are rude and unweilding.